Team 6, Usability Testing & Healthcare Applications

The content of the presentation was very good and easily understandable. However, one of the presenters could have done a better job presenting his/her material, they didn't seem confident while presenting and it seemed as if they were just reading off the powerpoint. As a team the group worked together very well to get their point across to the audience.

Even Though, the group worked well together as a team, it seems that 2 members of the team did most of the work, because they presented the majority of the powerpoint.

Team 8, Cloud Implementation Project

The content of this team's project was very detailed, and easily understood, the powerpoint was organized, and easily readable by the user. Even Though the group was missing a member, the rest of the group did a very good job explaining and presenting the project. The team was also very organized and seemed to have practiced the presentation a few times before it was their time to present.

The team also answered all the questions very well and seem to have a firm grasp on their material and presentation.

Team 9, The Social and Finance Market

The content of this team's presentation was also very clear, but it was unclear what was the question they were answering, or what was the point they were trying to get across. It seems that most of the powerpoint was about people sending money or paying people through mobile apps, such as venmo. It also seems that 2 members of the team did most of the work, because 2 members of the team presented most of the material, and they didn't fairly share in the presentation of the material.
